Empress

Our finest duvet, but still not above the occasional jaunt to the porch swing so that you can watch the fireflies come out at night without feeling the slightest chill. 350-thread count, long staple Egyptian cotton baffled in a cloud design lends a look of class when beneath a duvet cover. Baffled edging and double piping make it look just as elegant on its own. No matter where it might be used.

Pearl Crescent

The Pearl Crescent is the proud owner of a unique baffled honeycomb design that keeps the soft down interior aloft, even after being used as a sleeping bag in front of a roaring fireplace on Christmas Eve. And its 330-thread count cotton and satin piping billows over a bed so thickly that one can't be sure where, if anywhere, lies a sleeping person.
